Shakespeare’s Globe announces three new writers-in-residence

23 September 2019

Shakespeare’s Globe is delighted to announce three new writers-in-residence: Sami Ibrahim, Laura Lomas and Sabrina Mahfouz. The writers are taking part in the Globe’s inaugural ‘Scriptorium’, a new twelve-month residency for three playwrights which will see them create bespoke work for the outdoor Globe Theatre and indoor candlelit Sam Wanamaker Playhouse, culminating in a co-written production for the Globe Theatre to be staged in summer 2020.

Defined as ‘a space devoted to writing’ the Scriptorium will work on their new production alongside the Globe’s resident Ensemble, and will be mentored by established playwrights who have written plays for the Globe stage. They will also receive support from the Globe’s research faculty, and will be invited to attend rehearsals, workshops and performances throughout the year.

When their time at the Globe draws to a close, the writers will individually write and present a treatment and a selection of scenes for the Globe stage with a view to a potential commission.

Michelle Terry, Artistic Director, Shakespeare’s Globe, commented:
“For the first time in 400 years, The Globe has resident writers once again. With us for a year Laura, Sabrina and Sami, three most incredible and unique of voices, will be writing work bespoke not only to the architecture of our playhouses, but bespoke to the players who will perform the work. It’s such an important time for theatre and The Globe is proud to be one of many organisations that continues to recognise the vital role that writers play as we not only look to our past to tell us who we were but also at our present to tell us who we could become. Historic, mythic, necessary and hugely exciting.”

Sami Ibrahim commented:
“I can’t quite express how excited I am to be working with Sabrina and Laura as well as everyone at the Globe over the next year. It’s a brilliant, challenging space to write for - with an amazing history to it - and I just can’t wait to get started.”

Laura Lomas commented:
“I’m incredibly honoured to be taking up the role of joint writer-in-residence with Sabrina and Sami. The Globe has always been a place for radical and transformative work, that by the very nature of the architecture, was designed to be accessible to all. I’m humbled and excited to be here.”

Sabrina Mahfouz commented:
“Being one of the inaugural writers for Scriptoria at Shakespeare's Globe is a total dream for any night or day of the year! Writing new work by the river, at the centre of my favourite city in the world, in the theatre dedicated to the writer who was my first page to stage hero, is pretty epic. Fellow writers Laura and Sami plus Michelle, Sean, Jess and the whole Globe team have already made the year ahead feel like one of infinite theatrical possibility - I am so honoured to be here.”

SHAKESPEARE’S GLOBE

Our Cause
We celebrate Shakespeare’s transformative impact on the world by conducting a radical theatrical experiment. Inspired and informed by the unique historic playing conditions of two beautiful iconic theatres, our diverse programme of work harnesses the power of performance, cultivates intellectual curiosity and excites learning to make Shakespeare accessible for all.

‘And let us …on your imaginary forces work’ Henry V, Prologue

Performance and education take place throughout the year inspired and informed by the Globe Theatre and Sam Wanamaker Playhouse. In addition, there are guided tours, as well as retail, catering and events spaces. A registered charity (No. 266916), the Shakespeare’s Globe Trust does not receive regular public subsidy. Three quarters of income comes from over one million visitors annually who buy tickets to performances, events, exhibition and tours, and educational activities. Revenue is also generated by on-site retail and catering. Vital support comes from the Globe’s family of Friends and Patrons. These include a range of Members’ schemes at varying levels, corporate supporters, trusts, individual gifts and legacies.

GLOBE THEATRE
Following an absence of 400 years, the present Globe Theatre stands a few hundred metres from the original site. The rebuilding of the iconic building was led by the pioneering actor and director Sam Wanamaker who spent 23 years fundraising, advancing research into the appearance of the original Globe and planning the reconstruction with architect Theo Crosby. Sam Wanamaker died in 1993, three and a half years before the theatre was completed.

Performances, tours, and educational work take place all year with the theatre season running from April to October. The theatre is an important space for research led by in-house scholars, and is central to undergraduate and post graduate programmes, as well as activities for school students of all ages. Each year in early spring, Playing Shakespeare with Deutsche Bank, a Shakespeare production created for young people and families, gives 20,000 free tickets to state secondary schools in London and Birmingham.

BANKSIDE AND BEYOND
Overlooking the river on Bankside, Shakespeare’s Globe is proud to be in Southwark and has a range of community projects: Globe Elders Company, Southwark Youth Theatre, A Concert for Winter, Our Theatre schools performance project and a work experience programme for 14-18 year olds. Shakespeare’s Globe has a rich tradition of touring nationally and internationally with award-winning productions transferring to both the West End and Broadway. Globe on Screen also takes highlights from the theatre season to cinemas worldwide and Globe Player makes Shakespeare’s Globe productions available to all.
