FOR STUDENTS

Looking for something more extensive than, or a little different to, our standard workshop offers? Create a bespoke course for your learners with us.

We offer courses delivered at Shakespeare's Globe or in your school, tailored to your specific needs: be it a half-day movement workshop; a visiting director for your school production; or a week-long summer school culminating in a performance on one of our iconic stages (the Globe Theatre or the indoor Sam Wanamaker Playhouse).

Build your course, according to your requirements and schedule, in consultation with our Learning team.

Case Study of a recent 3-day course leading to a performance:

The client:

An international school, visiting London with 40 secondary school students.

The experience:

A 3-day course of drama workshops focusing on Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream. The workshops were delivered by professional actors and a Director, with input from specialist Movement and Voice practitioners. The course culminated in a performance on the Sam Wanamaker Playhouse stage to an audience of parents and teachers.

The impact:

'It offered our students an educational and disciplined experience that is nearly impossible to replicate [...]. For many, it was their first real insight into the world of drama – and it certainly sparked some new interest!'

'Everything was seamless from start to finish. My colleagues are still talking about how incredible it was. The parents were absolutely thrilled.'

– Head of English (Trip Leader)

FOR TEACHERS

We can run single or multi-day courses for teachers which upskill them on:

- Knowledge of, and techniques, for teaching Shakespeare's work, including focus on specific characters, plays, or themes across more than one play.
- Techniques for teaching through drama which can be used beyond Shakespeare's work.
- Applying social justice lenses to your teaching, such as anti-racism, gender, and sexuality.

We can also deliver an On-Request Continuing Professional Development session for your department or for teachers from multiple schools in a trust, borough or network. These can take place in your school, at Shakespeare's Globe or online. Led by expert Globe Practitioners, our CPDs help you build a practical toolkit for engaging students in their study of Shakespeare, and develop socially conscious approaches to his plays.

Case Study of a recent On-Request CPD:

The client:

A large Multi-Academy Trust with 30+ schools.

The experience:

180 English teachers came together for an INSET day focused on developing subject knowledge. Shakespeare's Globe delivered the keynote speech on using drama techniques to enhance English teaching, and a 3-hour CPD session to deepen selected teachers' understanding of this approach, focusing on Macbeth at GCSE.

The impact:

- 92% average enjoyment rate.
- 80% of teachers said that the event was 'very' or 'extremely' useful for their teaching practice.
- 75% of teachers said they were 'very' or 'extremely' likely to attend another Globe CPD event at Shakespeare's Globe or online.

Praise for the session:

'The practical activities could be taken away and used immediately. I am a huge believer in active approaches to Shakespeare so this aligns with how I train English teachers and provided me with further evidence to use to inform my training sessions.'
– Initial Teacher Training Lead (participant in a 3-hour CPD session)

'The best thing was the interactivity and multiplicity of approaches... I had a revelation about the staging presentation of Lady Macbeth.'
– English Teacher (participant in a 3-hour CPD session)
